

The Gun of the Future.
Captain Day, of the United States army, is an expert in rifles, and in a recent interview with a New York Times reporter, he talked about the future of the rifle. He is willing to go on record as predicting that the electric gun will be the gun of the future. A number of electric guns have been fitted up, but they are not yet on sale to the public. Electric guns may be adapted to almost any good gun. Here is a description of the gun, with a bolt action and electric fire. It has a magazine in the stock, and a very convenient bolt. Like any other first-class arm, it may be fired either by percussion or electricity. The Hotchkiss differs from the Lee in that the Lee comes in closing, while this comes in the next instant in opening. This gun has been transformed from an ordinary percussion to one for electric fire. There is, as you see, a small battery similar to the Leclanche in the stock. It is a chloride of silver battery, and there is no carbon action, except where the battery is connected with the trigger. There is no cocking or uncocking. The electricity ignites the powder directly, without any hammer or mainspring whatever. This device requires at least the life of an ordinary shell. The igniter used are not more expensive than the present percussion caps. One of these little batteries has been subjected to a test of thirty-three thousand shots without being recharged.

Curiosities of Magnetism.
Most well-informed people are doubtless aware that the globe on which their life is a great ball of magnetism, but comparatively few are aware of the influence of this property in continuing to exert on all sides, that many common but inexplicable phenomena can be traced directly to the source. Statistics go to show that in the matter of steel rails, as many as thirteen will become crystallized and break where they go to make up a railroad track running east and west, before one of those on a north and south track is similarly affected. This is entirely due to the magnetism generated by friction, and the fact that the polarity of the magnetic current is in the former instance resisted in the heading rush of the train, whereas in the latter case it is undisturbed. Another strange effect of this peculiar and occult force that is exerted on the watches of trainmen. A timepiece carried by the conductor running a train twenty miles an hour, however accurate it may be, will, if the speed of the train is increased to, say fifty miles, become useless until regulated. The magnetism generated by the flight of a train may be said to be in proportion to the speed with which it is propelled, and the delicate parts of a watch, coming all the way from four hundred to ten hundred pieces, and peculiarly susceptible to this influence by reason of hammering and polishing they have received, are not slow to feel the effect.

Edmunds on the Political Situation.
In an elaborate article in the Forum for July, Senator George F. Edmunds reviews the present political situation. He points out the reasons why he is a Republican, and in effect constructs a political platform for this campaign. He goes over the history of the two parties, and shows that the two principal facts in Democratic history are a tendency to free trade and responsibility for the rebellion; and he recalls the fact that the Republican government by the Democrats four years ago—that Republican administrations had been corrupt; and the chief promise of the Democrats—that they would be honest civil service reform. The Republican service has not been found corrupt, and practically all Republican offices have been replaced by Democrats. The principles and aims of the Republican party are thus put by Senator Edmunds:
(1) "The fullest defense and promotion at all times and in all places of equal political and civil rights of citizens of the United States."
(2) "To aid in the increase of public education by generous grants of money from the common treasury."
(3) "To revise the details and correct the inequalities that may exist in the custom laws upon the broad and fundamental basis always of the constant protection and encouragement of every American production, every American industry and every American laborer."
(4) "To diminish exorbitant revenues by the reduction or abolition of internal taxation."
(5) "To suppress and eradicate the debaucheries of the civil service."

They Were Married.
The Omaha Bee tells this amusing story of a marriage in the early days of Nebraska. A newly elected justice of the peace, who had been used to drawing up deeds and wills and little else, was called up to marry a couple in haste. Removing his hat, he remarked:
"Hats off in the presence of the Court."
All being uncovered, he proceeded:
"Hold up your right hand. You John Mankin, do you solemnly swear to the best of your knowledge and belief that you take this woman to have and hold for yourself, heirs, executors, administrators and assigns for her and their use forever?"
"I do," answered the groom, promptly.
"You, Alice Evans, take this young man for your husband, to have and to hold forever; and you do solemnly swear to be true to him in sickness and in health, from all circumstances, and have good right to sell, bargain or convey to said groom, yourself, heirs, executors, administrators and assigns?"
"I do," said the bride, doubtfully.
"Well, that's worth a dollar in fifty cents."
"Are we married?" asked the bride.
"Yes. Know all men by these presents, that I being in good health and of sound mind and disposition, in consideration of a dollar in fifty cents to me in hand well and truly paid, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, do hereby give, sell, bargain, convey and assign to the said groom, and his heirs, all that certain good behavior, and until otherwise ordered by the Court."

The Sparking Catawba.
This celebrated watering place, under the management of its proprietors, Dr. E. O. Elliott & Son, threw open its doors on the 1st of June. Aside from its valuable health restoring mineral waters, including white and red sulphur, lithia, iron, etc., it is one of the most pleasant places in Western North Carolina to spend the hot months. Natural scenery abounds on all sides—no less than half dozen peaks of noted mountains can be seen from the cupola of the "Old Castle." The temperature ranges there in July from 54 to 70 degrees. It puts new life into the debilitated. Once you visit the Sparking Catawba you will repeat it the next season and take your friends with you.—Lancaster Ledger.

N. W. TRUMP,
Columbia, S. C.

The Timber Trade's Journal is credited with a statement of this effect: The "Bo" tree, in the city of Amarapura, Burmah, is the oldest on earth. It was planted 288 B. C., and is accordingly 2,176 years old. Its great age is proved by historic documents, according to Sir Jam's Emerson Tennyson, who says: "To it kings have dedicated their dominions in testimony of belief that it is a branch of the identical fig-tree under which Buddha reclined at Urumala when he underwent his apothosis." Its leaves are carried by pilgrims as steamers, but it is too sacred to touch with a knife, and therefore they are gathered when they fall.

A REMARKABLE SHOWING FOR U. S. B. AGAINST OTHER REMEDIES.
PUTNAM CO., April 29, 1887.
I have been suffering for almost thirty years with an itching and burning all over my face and body. I took eighteen bottles of one blood medicine and it did me no good. I commenced last January to use B. B. B., and after using five bottles I felt better and stouter than I have for thirty years, my health is better and I weigh more than I ever did. The itching has nearly ceased, and I am confident that a few more bottles of B. B. B. will cure me entirely. I am sixty-two years old and can now do a good day's work in my field. I consider it the best medicine I have ever seen, for it certainly did me more good than all the medicine I have ever taken. I had in all nearly a hundred risings on my face, neck and body.
